Cities in a globalised world
 Exploring trends and the effect on urban resilience

Cities are inevitably affected by shocks and disruption, the COVID-19 pandemic being a case in point. The extent of the impact depends on cities' preparedness and capacity to adapt. Looking ahead, cities can explore emerging or plausible developments in order to anticipate them and contain potential disruption. On a report prepared by the European Strategy and Policy Coordination System (ESPAS), this EPRS paper explores the impact and implications for cities of current global trends, such as climate change, population growth, urbanisation, economic globalisation, increasing energy demand, higher connectivity and a changing world order, that will have direct consequences for the resilience of cities and their inhabitants.

BETTER AUDIENCE ACCESS

Access via OP Portal

We make the content available through our central online catalogue
